A total solution requires more than just getting the solids out of your process. Addressing the tough demands of the process industries, the LAKOS PREP System is designed and engineered to give a total solution - enabling you to get the solids out of your fluid, out of the separator and out of your facility.

Featuring the centrifugal-action performance of the LAKOS Separator, the fully engineered PREP System offers your choice of purging and solids-handling options along with complete electrical controls, all mounted on a modular support stand.
